

- Dr. Tiffany Anderson, Superintendent of Topeka Public Schools USD 501

Dr. Tiffany Anderson, a long-time Kansas resident, has been a public school educator for over 26 years, with the majority of that time as superintendent. She has improved achievement and closed achievement gaps for students of poverty in rural, urban and suburban public school districts. In 2016 Dr. Anderson became the first African-American female superintendent of Topeka Public Schools, in Topeka, Kansas. In 2019, the Governor appointed Dr. Anderson to the Postsecondary Technical Authority as part of the Board of Regents.

Since Dr. Anderson arrived in Topeka, the district has earned three national Magna Awards, one of which is for their work in equity. Dr. Anderson was one of Education Week's 16 leaders to learn from, she was selected a 2020 Kansas Icon in Education by Ingram, and she is one of the 2020 nominees for Kansas Superintendent of the Year.

As a superintendent in Virginia, Dr. Anderson led Montgomery County Public Schools in earning the Virginia Governor's Competence to Excellence Award and after leading as superintendent in Missouri, the Washington Post referred to Dr. Anderson as, "The Woman who made schools work for the poor."

Dr. Anderson also led the turnaround efforts following the Ferguson unrest in Jennings, Missouri, resulting in the establishment of minorities on the police force, new community policing initiatives and improved academic achievement.

As part of her initiatives aimed at addressing equity, Dr. Anderson has led the establishment of a district run homeless shelter in Jennings, Missouri and in Topeka she is partnering with local agencies in support of ending homelessness in Topeka through Impact Avenues.

Dr. Anderson earned her undergraduate degree, and later her doctorate, from Saint Louis University in 2001. She later successfully led one of the highest poverty districts in St. Louis to regain accreditation. Dr. Anderson received her second doctorate, the Doctor of Humane Letters degree from Eden Theological Seminary, for her service to community and society. She is also adjunct faculty for ASCD (Association for Schools and Curriculum Development).

Recognitions Dr. Anderson has received include the Lifetime Achievement Award for volunteerism from President Obama; the Salute to Excellence for Women awarded by the Urban League; the Stellar Performance Award by the St. Louis American and the award for Diversity in Business from the St. Louis Business Journal, among others.

- Judge Monique Centeno, District Court Judge – Division 11 of 18th District Court

Judge Monique Centeno is the presiding judge of Division 11 of Sedgwick County District Court. Judge Centeno is passionate about fairness and impartial justice for everyone that steps into court. She believes judges must guarantee a level playing field, and not favor those with economic means or socioeconomic status. Judges must serve the whole community and make independent decisions based on the rule of law and the Constitution.

Judge Centeno's passion for fairness and justice is immediately apparent when you step into her Family Law courtroom. She gives each person a reasonable amount of time to make their arguments. She intently listens and takes notes. She calmly enforces the rules of courtroom decorum to ensure that everyone is heard. Her rulings are based on commonsense and the rule of law.

Judge Centeno inherited her zeal for justice from her family. Her father was a non-commissioned soldier in the United States Army. He protected the rights of citizens for twenty-three years. Her mother was a stay-at-home mom that instilled the importance of listening and not pre-judging others. When the family settled in Kansas, Judge Centeno continued those principles.

Judge Centeno attended the University of Kansas in Lawrence, KS. She took part in several equal justice organizations and graduated with a Bachelor of Arts degree in political science in 2000. She worked for Shook, Hardy & Bacon, a large law firm in Kansas City for two years. She attended Washburn School of Law in Topeka, KS. She graduated with a juris doctorate in 2005.

In 2006, Judge Centeno started her legal career in Wichita, KS. Her career was focused on helping people obtain justice. She fought and won for clients whose civil liberties were at stake in front of state courts and federal courts. She represented clients in employment discrimination, pedestrians hurt by careless drivers, consumers harmed by commercial businesses, and love ones in wrongful death cases. She successfully tried countless jury trials and bench trials. She was an experienced trial attorney.

Judge Centeno is active in the community. She speaks regularly at elementary and middle schools. She mentors young adults and college students. She is an active member of the Wichita Bar Association, Inns of Courts, Wichita Attorney Women's Association, and the Kansas Trial Lawyers Association. She is a member of St. Thomas Aquinas Catholic Church.

- John Nave, Executive Vice President – Kansas AFL-CIO

John Nave has been the executive vice president of the Kansas AFL-CIO since January 2018. John comes from the United Steel Workers Local 307 where he served as Goodyear union rep for the past six years and as COPE chairman for the past three years. John was also a Teamster member from 1978 to 1983 when he worked for United Parcel Service. John's extensive political history began in the early nineties working on local and state campaigns for public servants still serving at the local, and state level. Soon after expanding on his own political experience, John served as district four councilman for the City of Topeka from 2003-2007.

John Nave currently sits on the Topeka Police Department Citizen's Advisory Council. The purpose of the Council is to meet with Topeka Police Chief Bill Cochran to discuss changes, new programs, and initiatives within the Topeka Police Department. It is also an opportunity for members to give feedback, whether it is good or bad, about the direction the department is headed. When John Nave was on the City Council, he was also on the Law Enforcement Partnership panel.

He developed a program for the Shawnee County juvenile jail and all Corrections officers. He taught from a safety mindset that police protect the public using deadly force if necessary, and if all options are gone including de-escalation techniques. Once an officer put cuffs on an individual, you then are to protect them from all harm and perform a mental and physical assessment immediately.

- Dr. Shannon Portillo, Associate Dean for Academic Affairs KU Edwards Campus & School of Professional Studies

Shannon Portillo, Ph.D. serves as associate dean of the University of Kansas Edwards Campus and the School of Professional Studies and as an associate professor in the School of Public Affairs and Administration at the University of Kansas. After graduating from KU, she served as a faculty member in the Criminology, Law & Society Department at George Mason University just outside of Washington D.C.

Dr. Portillo's scholarship explores how formal policies and rules and informal social norms and societal hierarchies shape the work of public organizations. She is specifically interested in how racism and sexism impact organizations and workers' experiences both historically and currently. Her work helps scholars and practitioners understand how inequities have been institutionalized in public organizations, including courts, policing, city management, higher education, and the military. Her work has appeared in a broad array of academic and popular outlets, and she is currently working on her second book.
